

• GUIDE MAP •

SPONSORED BY:

- | | | |
|------------------------------|------------------------|--|
| 1 ALAMEDA COLLISION REPAIR | 2 MARKETPLACE | 3 RHYTHMIX CULTURAL WORKS |
| 4 ALAMEDA NATURAL GROCERY | 5 DLE'S WAFFLE SHOP | 6 RICH & ROSE KRINKS (BROKER & ASSC. REALTOR, HARBOR BAY REALTY) |
| 7 ALAMEDA ISLAND BREWING CO. | 8 MASON MANAGEMENT | 9 TUCKER'S ICE CREAM |
| 10 HERD INJURY LAWYERS | 11 PERFORCE FOUNDATION | |

Power Box Art is a partnership between Alameda Municipal Power, Park Street Business Association and Rhythmix Cultural Works.

1

TITLE: RECYCLE-REPURPOSE-REUSE
ARTIST: STEPHEN SECHE

When I initially visited the transformer, it reminded me of a sardine can. My design is intended to make the transformer look like an oversized sardine can filled with things we might re-use, compost, replant, or store inside the reusable can. The salmon is a reference to Alameda's history as home to the Alaska Salmon Packing Fleet

2

TITLE: WILD TRIO
ARTIST: FLAVIA KRASILCHIK

I am an audience for the birds' cycle on the Alameda shores and bird sanctuary. I chose to live in Alameda because it is a place where urban meets nature in total harmony and grace, providing me the source of inspiration to create my ceramic sculptures and whimsical creatures from recycled materials.

3

TITLE: ROOFTOP GARDEN
ARTIST: JESSICA WARREN

I love the beauty rooftop gardens add to the community as well as the creative use of unutilized space. Gardens create community, peaceful havens, and they educate. Hopefully, my piece, "Rooftop Gardens," will inspire people to get creative about where they can put their own gardens.

4

TITLE: CONSERVE WATER
ARTIST: NANCY CROOKSTON

I am passionate about doing what I can do to reduce my carbon footprint. My painting, "Conserve," illustrates the importance of conserving water and keeping our planet clean, featuring fish from one of my favorite Park Street restaurants.

5

TITLE: ALAMEDA LIVING
ARTIST: DELENA BRITNELL

Alameda captured my heart with serene tree-lined streets, the ease of bicycling everywhere, and the small-town community that is so rare to find in the Bay Area. The local farmers' market, warm sunshine and bright California poppies all inspired these drawings. By embracing a green lifestyle we can reduce our carbon footprint to maintain the vibrancy of Alameda living.

6

TITLE: STRAWBERRY GREEN
ARTIST: CLARE RICKARD

"Strawberry Green" represents working and living outside in the open air. It illustrates sharing the planet, respecting each other and supporting the earth as it supports you. I hope when you see this art, you remember to treasure Alameda and your world.

7

TITLE: WHAT'S OLD IS NEW ARTIST: CHRIS RUMMELL

My artwork references one of the most familiar and recyclable objects in our culture: the glass bottle. Whether it's reused or melted down, glass has a potentially infinite life cycle, simultaneously existing as old and new while passing from one hand to the next. We each play a role in keeping that cycle unbroken.

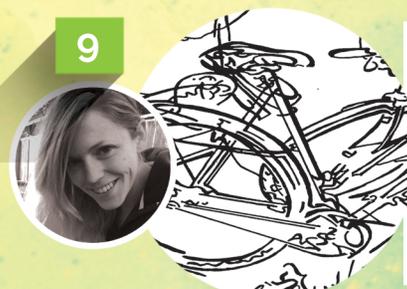

8

TITLE: WINDS OF CHANGE
ARTIST: WESLEY WARREN

Driving across country, I remember being intrigued when we would come up over a hill and see vast wind farms in the distance. The giant blades casting long shadows across landscape as the sun set. The blades slowly turning as they catch the primal force of wind and convert it into electricity.

9

TITLE: I WANT TO RIDE MY BICYCLE
ARTIST: EMILY BONNES

I grew up in Alameda and went away for college in Oregon. After biking to school every day in the driving rain, I feel fortunate to live on this island city so flat, warm and perfect for cycling. "I Want to Ride My Bicycle" is a loving portrait of my husband's and my matching vintage bikes.

10

TITLE: PLANTS GROW
ARTIST: LARS PETERSEN III

My art celebrates plants as a way to offset the carbon in our air. I want kids to know they can help the earth simply by planting trees and even just watering plants, to help make the planet a better and healthier place.